As the Reaver skin bundle reaches the end of its second run in the Valorant store, Riot Games have released an all-new skin line alongside Patch 1.12. Here's everything you need to know, including the skin prices and release date. Just as the Reaver skins make their way out of the Valorant store, Riot Games are replacing it with an entire new skin line for players to get their hands on: Ion. Riot describe the new line as having been 'forged at the edge of darkness' and being 'revered for its power', noting that 'humanity's last hope is in your hands.' This certainly gives off alien invasion vibes, reflected in the futuristic silvers and blues that make these skins so iconic. Art lead Sean Marino explains that the Ion skins are the "other extreme" to the Reaver skins. Inspired by artists such as Syd Mead and Daniel Simon, Ion relies on "clean lines, smooth edges and neo-futurism" to make it a "fully-fledged white sci-fi skin". Ion Bundle Price Riot have announced that the price for each individual weapon skin is 1,775VP, with the melee skin costing 3,550VP. For Valorant fanatics who want to upgrade their entire arsenal to mirror their love for sci-fi, the whole bundle can be purchased for 7,100VP, making the whole pack 'Premium Edition'. Listed below is what the bundle includes: Skins: Phantom Sheriff Bucky Operator Melee Other: Ion Player Card Spray Gun Buddy Ion skin bundle Release date The Ion skins will be available to purchase on 11 November. Check out some images of the weapons and variants below. Phantom Sheriff Bucky Operator Melee Also, here's a shot of the cute little sci-fi gun buddy: It'll be exciting to see these new skins drop in game, so make sure that you're online and ready to get them. After all it's 2020, who knows when the aliens are going to invade... Get some clean Sci-fi guns in Valorant. Credit: Riot Games Riot Games has revealed the Ion skin set that is coming to Valorant later this week and it looks like it would be right at home in Mass Effect thanks to its clean sci-fi design. The Ion skin set will launch tomorrow, November 11, with skins for the Phantom, Sheriff, Bucky and Operator as well as the Ion Player Card, Spray, Gun Buddy and Melee. The gun skins will cost 1,775 VP each, with the full bundle setting you back 7,100 VP. Just like most of the premium skin sets, there are a number of upgrades that can be purchased to customise the skin further. The full list of upgrades can be seen below. Level 1: Model change and custom reticle during ADS Level 2: Custom muzzle flash and tracer; custom firing sound Level 3: New transparent panels on the guns revealing their energy cores, custom reload animation/VFX/audio; custom equip animation/VFX/audio; custom inspect audio Level 4: Finisher and kill banner Level 5 - Variant with VFX Level 6 - Variant with VFX Level 7 - Variant with VFX "Ion was meant to be a very classic far-future sci-fi skin line with its clean white plastic exterior, high-end glass, blue glowing orb, and laser sounds," said Sean Marino, Art Lead on Premium Content for Valorant. "It's a bright, hopeful sci-fi, rather than a post-apocalyptic, gritty one, and thus is both aesthetically-pleasing and technologically advanced. That's why with Ion, we wanted to showcase weapon transformation through visual changes. Specifically, we wanted to show a gun skin that would go from a "prototype tech" state to a more refined state, but in the opposite way. Typically when you see a prototype, it has exposed parts that get covered up as it evolves. But here, the cool part was revealing the inside of the weapon, kind of like how high-end gaming PCs are designed in a way to show off their inner-core parts. To accomplish this same feeling, we ended up using a camouflage physical material that would reveal a complex energy orb mechanism, which is the power source of the weapon." "We did our initial kickAnother sci-fi skin line comes to Valorant but this one looks like it would be at home in Mass Effect. off for the first weapon in this skin line, the Phantom, on November 11, 2019," added Preeti Khanolkar, Producer for Premium Content on Valorant. "That's exactly one year from the launch date of the skin! Ion is hands-down my favorite skin, and I've been waiting patiently for us to launch it ever since we finished the Phantom. I'm not that patient, though, so I've bought several Phantom skins along the way, but my heart has always belonged to Ion." The Phantom has a lot of skins, but this is easily one of the best. / Photo Courtesy of Riot GamesThe Valorant Ion Bundle is now available. The new skin line is billed as "Humanity's last hope is in your hands." The skins come packaged with new sound effects as well, so besides looking cool they'll also sound futuristic. The bundle features five different skins and a special Ion Gun Buddy, Ion Player Card and spray. Ion skins can also be purchased individually, but at a marked up price compared to the bundle. Purchasing skins individually will also cause you to lose out on the Gun Buddy, Player Card and spray. Altogether the bundle costs 7,100 VP, which is roughly $70. Separately the gun skins cost 1,775 VP each, while the melee skin costs a bit more at 3,550 VP. Humanity's last hope is in your hands. The Bucky, however, is a different story. There are only three other Bucky skins, and none of them are as luxurious as this new Ion skin. If you're a big fan of the Bucky then this skin might one to pick up. It's important to keep in mind that Valorant skins are only available for a limited time, so make your decision soon. Valorant has a new patch this week, and while the big news is undoubtedly the much-anticipated buff to Phoenix, it also offers the chance for dataminers to dig into hidden files and reveal some of the upcoming skin bundles set to be introduced in the near future. As it turns out, there are two in the pipeline, and one of them is another Run it Back bundle set to feature some old favorites. As discovered by ValorLeaks, the Run it Back 3 bundle features the following weapons: Radiant crisis 001 BuckyIon PhantomEgo StingerMagepunk OperatorGravitational Uranium Neuroblaster Classic Valorant Run It Back 3 Bundle Price Since the bundle has not yet been officially confirmed by Riot Games, there's no listed price as yet. That being said, we can use the previous two Run it Back bundles as a guideline. Those came in at a discounted price of 5,950 VP (8,875 VP value), though you don't have to buy the entire bundle if you don't want to. Each of the five skins is available individually for 1,775 VP. Again, there's no official confirmation of the bundle yet and so we're unsure as to the exact release date. We're going to assume it will be run in tandem with the upcoming Sarmad bundle, with both displacing the current Prelude to Chaos bundle which is in the Valorant store until later today.
